

KEITH FRITZ

Rue Irving

Planeta Design Group designed this table as the centerpiece for the formal dining room within an historic Peabody and Stearns shingle style home from the 1880's. The table is a modern interpretation on the turned wood spindles and joinery found throughout the house. The dark rosewood was chosen to contrast the original and restored oak paneling encircling the dining space and a complement to the oil rubbed bronze doors that were added as part of the renovation.

Top Available in any wood species, Base constructed of solid black walnut. Available in virtually any size, Full Custom Available